Approaching the End: Eschatological Reflections on Church ...

In Approaching the End: Eschatological Reflections on Church, Politics, and Life, Stanley Hauerwas, at the end of his teaching career, offers a collection of essays that explore how an eschatological outlook impacts theology, the church, and the Christian journey. Hauerwas describes eschatology as something that permeates "every loci of the Christian faith" and, therefore, cannot be defined in a systematic theological schema (xii).

Approaching the End: Eschatological Reflections on Church ...

"In Approaching the End the recently retired Stanley Hauerwas does not offer, or so he says, his 'swan song' — an anthology of stuff he thinks — but rather a multifaced reflection on 'ends', that is, eschatological, teleological and biological ends, and how these frame, and are framed by, the life of the Church. . . . Consistently engaging and thought provoking."

File Type PDF Approaching The End Eschatological Reflections On Church Politics And Life

Approaching the End promises eschatological reflections and delivers on the promise. Although he is writing about eschatology, Hauerwas strongly maintains that he is not reaching his own "end" and disavows any contention that Approaching the End is a kind of "swan song" (xiv). He addresses politics and war in several chapters.
