MAKING GOVERNMENT AND NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS WORK better for citizens is a formidable challenge for public leaders in the U.S. and abroad. Mark Moore, Hauser Professor of Nonprofit Organizations and faculty director of the Hauser Center for Nonprofit Organizations, has focused much of his research on these issues. He is author of "Creating Public Value: Strategic Management in Government."

Creating public value | Harvard Kennedy School

We argued that just as the goal of private managers was to create private (economic) value, the goal of government agencies was to "create public (social) value." To determine what constituted public value, and to act to produce it, we developed a concept of "strategy in the public sector."

Creating Public Value: Strategic Management in Government ...

Public value is supposed to provide managers with a notion of how entrepreneurial activity can contribute to the common good. Nowadays, public value is no longer limited to the public sector, but is used by all types of organization, including non-governmental organizations and private sector firms.

Public value - Wikipedia

Moore postulates a strategic triangle, arguing that a useful conception of public value can be envisioned by managers if they integrate (1) substantive judgments of what would be valuable and effective (2) a diagnosis of political expectations (and legal parameters) and (3) hard-headed calculations of what is operationally feasible.
