Colors and Shapes: Foundational Skills for Young Children. So let's start by stating the fact that our world is literally made up of colors and shapes. That is what we see all around us! A house has a different shape from a tree, which has a different shape from a person or a banana. And the cars, flowers, and street signs around us come in many different colors. As it turns out, colors and shapes are a key way that we describe and categorize our world.

Why learning colors and shapes is so important for young ...

Provide an additional challenge by asking children to color-code the shapes. Create and take apart shapes Once preschoolers can correctly identify flat (square, circle, triangle, rectangle, hexagon) and solid or three-dimensional shapes (cube, cone, cylinder, sphere), they are ready to create and then take apart shapes using materials provided by their teacher.
